

Animations Questions—1 Motion Tweening

An airline company wants to use an animations to help inform passengers of the safety procedures used on board an aeroplane. They have asked a graphic designer to plan and produce this.

The animation was made using a process called Motion Tweening.

1 State an appropriate file format which can be used to save the animation.

_____ [1]

2 Describe three key setup requirements, in addition to selecting the character and positioning the first frame, when producing a motion tweening animation.

_____ [3]

3 Describe two advantages to the airline passengers of using an animation rather than a printed safety information leaflet.

_____ [2]

4 Describe two disadvantages to the airline company of creating an animation rather than a printed safety information leaflet.

